

Breakout Session Questions

- What is your reaction to what you've heard this morning about the potential of public libraries to help with community disasters? Do you think some of these ideas might work in your community?
- To emergency management staff: In what areas do you think that the public libraries in your region can provide assistance in the community's response to disaster?
- To public library staff: In what areas do you think that your library can provide assistance in the community's response to disaster?
- How can libraries be recovery areas in times of disasters enhancing the services of emergency management?
- People want to be self sufficient after a disaster. What coordinated efforts between both organizations can ensure this happen in a timely manner?
- What are the next steps that public libraries and emergency management personnel at the county and the state level should take for future collaboration?