School Success for Kids with ADHD (2009)
— “Offers parents and teachers the support they need to ensure children with attention deficits build on their strengths, circumvent their weaknesses, and achieve to their fullest potential. Topics covered include recognizing the causes and types of attention deficits and how they appear in the school context, requesting school evaluations and diagnoses, understanding the laws regarding students with special needs, advocating for these students in the school environment, and coaching students with attention deficits to success.”

A Best Friend for James (2009)
— “Every day we are reminded of how God watches over us even when we don’t know it. Through a series of events, he provided us with a cat, who has been a friend to our autistic son, at times treating him as if he were her own kitten. It has brought us such joy to see how much joy she brings to his life. This book is loosely based on a combination of events involving him and cocoa as well as the very first cat I ever had, Whiskers.”

1001 Great Ideas for Teaching & Raising Children with Autism or Asperger’s (2010)
— “Ellen Notbohm and Veronica Zysk are authors who know how to take their own advice. Winner of Learning Magazine’s Teachers’ Choice Award, the first edition of 1001 Great Ideas has been a treasure resource in the autism community since 2004. Now, in this expanded edition, Ellen Notbohm and Veronica Zysk present parents and educators with over 1800 ideas—try-it-now tips, eye-opening advice, and grassroots strategies.”
“Book lovers never go to bed alone.” ~Author Unknown

Project MEANS: Family-School Guide on Involvement in the IEP Process

ScienceDaily (Jan. 25, 2012) — "The odds of a major depressive episode are more than double for those working 11 or more hours a day compared to those working seven to eight hours a day, according to a report is published in the Jan. 25 issue of the online journal PLoS ONE. The authors, led by Marianna Virtanen of the Finnish Institute of Occupational Health and University College London, followed about 2000 middle aged British civil servants and found a robust association between overtime work and depression. This correlation was not affected when the analysis was adjusted for various possible confounders, including socio-demographics, lifestyle, and work-related factors."
