Spotlight on These New Additions...

Great Books and Videos

The Sibling Slam Book: What it's Really Like to Have a Brother or Sister with Special Needs (2005) - Give teenagers a chance to say what's on their minds, and you might be surprised by what you hear. That's exactly what Don Meyer, creator of Sibshops and author of Views From Our Shoes did when he invited together a group of 80 teenagers, from all over the United States and abroad, to talk about what it's like to have a brother or sister with special needs

Let's Talk: Navigating Communication Services and Supports for Your Young Child with Autism (2016) - Communication is often a parent's number-one concern when a young child is diagnosed with autism. With so many interventions available, how can families be sure they're choosing the best option for their child? This straightforward book gives you the practical knowledge that you need to evaluate communication therapies and treatments and make sound decisions rooted in evidence

Life and Love: Positive Strategies for Autistic Adults (2006) - Written for adults on the spectrum, this book is divided into two sections: life and love: The author describes and suggests concrete ways to deal with some of the problems faced by those on the autism spectrum. The author includes a broad spectrum of suggestions for different types of relationships and weaves these together with the core concept of self-esteem

"I would maintain that thanks are the highest form of thought; and that gratitude is happiness doubled by wonder"

An Activity-Based Approach to Early Intervention, Fourth Edition (2015) - Early childhood professionals—learn the nuts and bolts of activity-based intervention (ABI), the trusted, child-directed approach for young children birth to 5. With the fourth edition of this classic textbook and professional guide, you'll discover how to embed learning opportunities in everyday activities to help children acquire and generalize functional skills and reach their developmental goals.

Early Intervention Every Day! Embedding Activities in Daily Routines for Young Children and Their Families (2014) - Effective early intervention doesn't stop when the provider leaves the family's home. That's why every interventionist needs this practical sourcebook, packed with research-based strategies for helping parents and caregivers take a consistent, active role in supporting young children's development.

Addressing Challenging Behaviors in Early Childhood Settings: A Teacher's Guide (2010) - To prevent and resolve common behavior problems in young children, early childhood teachers need a full understanding of what's behind the behaviors and strategies that really work. Taking a "big picture" approach to this critical topic, this book illuminates the diverse influences on challenging behavior and arms teachers with the tools they need to create powerful solutions.

Are You a Person with a Disability Affected by Hurricane Matthew?

Are you a survivor of Hurricane Matthew with a disability living in South Carolina?

If so, The University of South Carolina needs your input regarding your experiences during the Hurricane Matthew and the subsequent flooding. The information collected will not be identifiable and will be used to enhance South Carolina's emergency response services for persons with disabilities during and after a crisis.
